

Experience DC

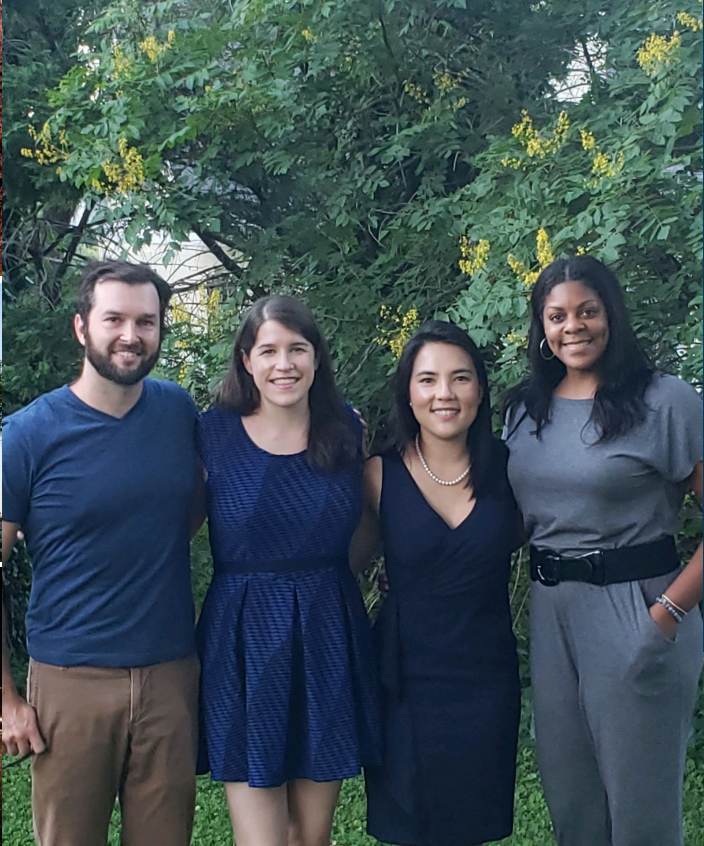

Jose M. Alonso (flickr.com/photos/josema_a)

Kelvin Flores (flickr.com/photos/kelvinfloresphotography)

flickr.com/photos/foundingfarmers

GW

Health Policy & Advocacy Fellowship

Contact

Director: Natalie Kirilichin, M.D., M.P.H. nkirilichin@mfa.gwu.edu

2120 L St. NW, Suite 450
Washington, D.C. 20037

Clinical Medicine

Fellows work an average of 6 to 7 eight-hour shifts per month as clinical faculty at one or more affiliated hospital emergency departments. Fellows also teach residents and students at each site.

- ▲ United Medical Center
- ▲ Washington DC Veterans Affairs
- ▲ George Washington University Hospital
- ▲ National Naval Medical Center

Curriculum

Fellows undertake a rigorous didactic fellowship curriculum.

- ▲ Master of Public Health degree in health policy from GW's Milken Institute School of Public Health
- ▲ Executive Coaching
- ▲ Joint fellowship curriculum
- ▲ Robust policy and health services research infrastructure
- ▲ Interdisciplinary multi-school collaboration

Goals

The Fellowship cultivates future physician leaders through unmatched training and career development in academics, emergency medicine, and health policy.

- ▲ Formal training in policy analysis, development, and evaluation
- ▲ Opportunity to author health services research, editorials, policy publications
- ▲ Lifelong network of health policy mentors and professional policy contacts

Policy Placement

Fellows rotate through a variety of policy placements congruent with their interests, gaining practical and substantive first-hand experience in legislative, administrative, and political processes.

Prior placements include:

- ▲ U.S. Congressional Offices
- ▲ The White House
- ▲ Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services
- ▲ Agency for Healthcare Research & Quality
- ▲ District of Columbia Department of Health